H.R. 1218 would require the Federal Communications Commission (FCC) to incorporate data on maternal health outcomes into its Mapping Broadband Health in America platform.

Using information about the cost of broadband mapping, CBO estimates that it would cost the FCC less than $500,000 to update its broadband health maps to incorporate maternal health outcomes. However, because the FCC is authorized to collect fees each year sufficient to offset the appropriated costs of its regulatory activities, CBO estimates that the net cost to the FCC would be negligible, assuming appropriation actions consistent with that authority.

If the FCC increases annual fee collections to offset the costs of implementing provisions in the bill, H.R. 1218 would increase the cost of an existing private-sector mandate on entities required to pay those fees. CBO estimates that the incremental cost of the mandate would be small and would fall well below the annual threshold established in the Unfunded Mandates Reform Act (UMRA) for private-sector mandates ($170 million in 2021, adjusted annually for inflation).

The bill contains no intergovernmental mandates.

On June 14, 2021, CBO transmitted a cost estimate for S. 198, the Data Mapping to Save Moms' Lives Act, as ordered reported by the Senate Committee on Commerce, Science, and Transportation on April 28, 2021. H.R. 1218 is similar to S. 198, and CBO estimates implementing either bill would cost less than $500,000.

The CBO staff contacts for this estimate are David Hughes (for federal costs) and Rachel Austin (for mandates). The estimate was reviewed by H. Samuel Papenfuss, Deputy Director of Budget Analysis.
